RUSSIAN ATOM BOMB TEST REPORTED

HENRY WALLACE FOR PRESIDENT DRIVE STARTS

Ex-Vice President Chides War Veterans, Defends Commies Activities

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11—A Wallace-for-president campaign appeared in full swing financially today after the former vice president denounced the congressional probe of alleged Hollywood Communism as a "gigantic conspiracy against the American people."

Wallace, addressing a rally sponsored by the Progressive Citizens of America last night, termed the probe a "witch hunt."

He accused the house un-American activities committee which conducted the investigation of "trying—with too much success—to put over an entirely new concept of laws and rights—un-American concepts borrowed from the fascist systems."

THE CE-for-president campaign got a financial birth at the rally when "voluntary contributions and pledges" amounting to over $5,000 were made by the 3,000 persons in the audience.

In his speech, Wallace also rapped as "shocking" the disruption of a PCA-sponsored meeting at Independence Square in Philadelphia last week.

He said the "mob rule at the Cradle of Liberty" was an assault on American freedom and had reached the "brass knuckles and stench bomb stage."

Wallace also chided war veterans and others for breaking up a Trenton, N. J., meeting which was to have been addressed by Gerhard Eisler, purported No. 1 Communist in America.

Wallace said the house un-American committee has existed for nearly a decade and no legislation has resulted from its recommendations, adding:

"It has existed for the sole purpose of intimidating advocates of progressive legislation. Its principal target has always been organized labor and forces sympathetic to strong workers' organizations."

1,000 FEARED DROWNED BY FLOODS IN TURKEY

LONDON, Nov. 11—Reuters reported today from Beyoglu, Turkey, that 1,000 persons are feared drowned in floods which swept the Adana plain.

The floods followed 60 hours of heavy rains. Thousands were said to have fled the plain in terror as the flood waters rose.

First reports said at least 1,500 persons were made homeless.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Prof. Einstein is to be honored for "outstanding contribution to international understanding"—if they mean the Einstein theory, it does begin to look clearer than anything the future holds.

When Einstein announced his theory there weren't three people in the country who understood it—today there aren't three people in the country who understand anything.

Things are so confused that a fellow in Los Angeles says a girl cast a spell over him with a sandwich of potatoes, beans and macaroni—it may have been just indigestion.

These days it should take at least a steak sandwich to charm anybody.

But there are still new worlds to conquer—three Australian scientists have succeeded in bouncing a radar beam off the moon.

Nothing came of it.

It was during the ceremonies that followed that Foreign Minister Molotov announced that "the atomic bomb secret no longer exists."

New York Red Probe May Overshadow Spy Ring Expose In Canada

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—The Washington Times-Herald said today that findings of a New York grand jury investigating a Soviet espionage ring may result in developments "which will overshadow the Canadian spy ring report."

The newspaper said the probe's significance was indicated by a telegram sent to President Truman yesterday by William Z. Foster, chairman of the Communist party in the United States, and Eugene Dennis, general secretary.

Foster and Dennis accused Attorney General Clark of providing news "leaks" regarding progress of the investigation.

The Communist spokesmen, the Times-Herald story continued, urged Mr. Truman to oust Clark and to discharge the grand jury.

THE TIMES-Herald also noted that the Communist newspaper Daily Workers demanded that the "spy scare" inquiry be ended.

According to the account carried by the Washington newspaper, between 50 and 60 federal government workers are among persons directly involved in the investigation.

The story asserts that the

MARSHALL ASKS 300 MILLIONS TO AID CHINA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Secretary of State Marshall told congress today that the United States should spend about 300 million dollars to aid the Nationalist government of China.

Marshall made this disclosure in testimony before the senate foreign relations committee. The secretary appeared before the committee primarily for "cross examination" on the Marshall plan to help Western Europe.

As the hearing opened, Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., committee chairman said that the inquiry will be confined as far as possible to consideration of the $97 million dollar relief program to ease hunger and starvation in Europe this winter.

But, he said, the picture is so tied in with the Marshall plan that no hard and fast rule can be followed and that many senators desire information on the long-range Marshall plan calling for between 16 billion and 20 billion dollars over the next four years.

PROBE BOMBER CRASH

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 11—Air Force officials launched an investigation today of a B-29 crash which killed two crew members and injured five others at Tinker Field, Okla. Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Reds Still Lagging Five Years Behind, Is Claim

ATOM EXPERTS IN U. S. DOUBT RUSS SUCCESS

Solons Skeptical Because Story Originates With Reds At Prague

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Two senators who are considered authorities on atomic energy matters expressed skepticism today on reports that Russia has successfully tested the first Soviet A-bomb.

Sen. Hatch (D) N. M., member of President Truman's evaluation board at the Bikini tests, said in comment on the Russian bomb story carried in the Paris newspaper L'Intransigeant:

"I place no credence whatever in the story that Russia exploded an atomic bomb last June."

"I have been assured by scientists that an atomic explosion, even in far-off Siberia, would be detected."

SENATOR Hickenlooper (R) Iowa, chairman of the congressional atomic committee, said he doubted the story largely because it appeared to have emanated from Russian sources at Prague. He added:

"If the story comes from Russian sources, then my experience with the flood of false Russian statements emanating from the Soviet press and otherwise leads me to believe this report is untrue."

Hickenlooper recently made a European tour to investigate Soviet propaganda methods.

THE ATOMIC energy commission said it would have "no comment at this time" on the Russian A-bomb reports.

It was learned, however, that commission members were giving careful study to the A-bomb test reports carried in the Paris newspaper L'Intransigeant.

In this connection, it was recalled that L'Intransigeant six weeks ago carried a report that the United States had exploded a "new and bigger" atom bomb in New Mexico. At the time, the story was branded false by U. S. official spokesmen.

MARTIN LIKELY TO DENY PLEA FOR WRITERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Speaker Martin (R) Mass. is expected to reject today a personal appeal that he decline to certify to the U. S. attorney contempt of congress citations against 10 Hollywood writers, directors and producers.

The speaker agreed to hear Martin Popper of the National Lawyers Guild, one of the counsel for the 10 Hollywood personalities, argue the point before him before taking action.

The 10 men were cited for contempt by the house un-American activities committee when they failed to state at the recent public hearings on Communism in Hollywood whether they were members of the Communist party.

Maximum penalties of one year imprisonment and $10,000 fine are provided on conviction for contempt of congress.

VENISON FOR KIDS

DOVER, O., Nov. 11—The boys and girls at the Tuscarawas county children's home are going to enjoy venison steaks. Two deer, a buck and a doe, killed by autos were prepared for the home by Game Protector James Holleyoak.

In Narcotics Raid

TEEN AGE figures in a spectacular "drug ring" raid in New York's night club-studded West 52nd Street area were Joyce Mintz, 18, a hat check girl, and Margaret Pierce, 19, a former chorine, both of whom are charged by police with using narcotics. Two older men are held for operating an apartment frequented by drug users.

FOREIGN POLICY SECRECY RAPPED

Grange Master Asks Truth On Situation Before Sharing Food

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—Secrecy surrounding the nation's foreign policy came under stern criticism today from State Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter.

Addressing the 75th anniversary convention of the state Grange, which preceded the 10-day national Grange meeting which opens in Columbus tomorrow, Fichter stated:

"In the present emergency we can do nothing less than to share our food with the people overseas who face starvation."

"If there is frankness in informing the people regarding the foreign policy of the government, the food will be forthcoming."

"(But) when food is obtained in the name of charity and then used in the game of international politics, confidence is undermined."

Regarding relations with Russia Fichter had this to say:

"The emphasis on the conflict between these two countries is instilling a feeling of hopelessness."

1500 B. C. GALS BEAT 1947 TO NEW LOOP PUNCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—Miss and Mrs. America may believe they have that "new look" but the styles they are wearing today are at least 3,000 years old.

That opinion was expressed today by Mrs. Mabel Johnson, research editor of the World Book Encyclopedia who said the "new look" was in fashion in ancient Babylonia and Egypt.

The gals of 1500 B. C., it seems, wore the long, tubular tunic and tight long skirt now fashionable in 1947. They also wore the high-necked gown with flowing, three-quarter sleeves and the flaring, long skirt so smart today.

Successful Explosion Of Small Bomb Felt Over 19 Mile Radius

PARIS, Nov. 11—L'Intransigeant, an authoritative Paris newspaper, reported today that Russia has successfully exploded its first test atom-bomb and its blast was felt over a 19-mile radius.

A copyrighted article by John Griggs, datelined Prague, said that 280 Soviet atom specialists and government officials were present in the remote Siberian area where the bomb was detonated June 15.

Griggs, who claimed to have "ultra-confidential" information, added that Soviet experts conceded after the test that Russia is "five years behind the Americans in manufacture of the atom-bomb."

Griggs added that although the Russians have discovered the secret of exploding the atom-bomb they have not the slightest chance in the world of manufacturing it on a mass production basis at present.

According to the dispatch, the missile was touched off at 10 o'clock in the morning in the rugged Irkutsk district.

TRUMAN LEADS OBSERVATION OF ARMISTICE DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—President Truman stood with head bared in a steady downpour of rain today before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington national cemetery and paid solemn homage to America's heroic war dead.

The chief executive motored to the shrine under gray, storm-swept skies to join with the leaders of the armed forces, members of the cabinet and heads of the veterans organizations of several wars in paying his annual tribute to the illustrious dead.

Mr. Truman led the nation's Armistice Day observation by placing a huge wreath of yellow chrysanthemums at the base of the white marble tomb which marks the grave of "A Soldier Known But to God."

It was a gray, cold, wet morning. The President stood in the downpour of rain, holding his hat over his head, a few paces in front of the tomb as the minute of silence was observed in solemn tribute to the armistice that was signed Nov. 11, 1918, at 11 o'clock, ending the First World War.

MILITARISM IN JAPAN DEAD, EICHELBERGER SAYS

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 11—Militarism in Japan is dead in the opinion of Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger.

The commander of the Eighth Army occupation troops in Japan had nothing to say, however, on Russian relations in the Far East. In Cincinnati for Armistice Day celebrations, Eichelberger said:

"The important thing is that America must stay in the position where no nation will push us around."

Eichelberger is a native of Urbana, O.

MARSH TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

Grand Jury Called To Consider Twin Killings By Love-Mad Farmer

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 11—Authorities today sought a murder indictment against a 28-year-old farmer who so coveted his neighbor's wife that he abducted her after killing her husband and her father.

State's Attorney Max Weston recalled the grand jury to present evidence in the case after a Winnebago county coroner's jury recommended the farmer, Glenn Marsh, be held on a charge of murder.

Marsh, who lived six miles north of Rockford, signed a statement admitting he had fired at Vernon Anderson, 28, husband of Mrs. Katherine (Kit) Anderson, 26, and Grant Muhlen, 52, of Northport, Mich. Both died in the hail of bullets from a .38 caliber revolver.

THE FARMER also admitted he kidnapped the woman he still loves, Mrs. Anderson. She escaped several hours after the shooting and abduction last Friday.

Marsh's wife, Audrey, mother of two children, and Mrs. Anderson, who has three children, sat close to each other at the inquest. Each had agreed before the slaying to divorce their respective husbands so that Marsh and Kit could be married.

FILIPINOS VOTE AFTER CAMPAIGN FATAL TO 27

MANILA, Nov. 11—Philippine voters trooped to the polls today to elect national senators, provincial governors and candidates seeking numerous local offices.

Voting began after a campaign marked by bloodshed that took at least 27 lives.

Before the polling places were thrown open, President Manuel Roxas appealed to the nation to maintain peace and order and issued a particular warning to dissatisfied groups in central Luzon, stronghold of Hukbalahap rebel peasants.

RELAX AND DIE GEN. KENNEY TELLS AMERICA

Neglect Of Defenses Will Mean End Of U. S., Says Air Corps Chief

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—Gen. George C. Kenney told an Armistice day audience today that "if we again relax our vigilance and neglect our defenses the probability is that the United States as we now know it will cease to exist."

The commanding general of the strategic air command made a stirring plea for preparedness during a pause in the Armistice Day parade at the Eternal Light monument in New York. The monument honors the heroes of the first great World War.

Gen. Kenney said:

"Those men cannot speak for themselves today but I believe that they still expect us to keep faith with them. They saved this country and this generation. They have a right to expect us to look after this country and future generations."

"Mere homage does not mean much unless it is accompanied by our firm resolve that every resource of our power, wealth, industry and science will be used to secure the safety of this country and to preserve the principles and ideals of what we have come to call our American way of life."

"We like our way of life and if there are any improvements to be made in it we intend to make them ourselves without any help from anyone else."

THE GENERAL noted significantly that "we have fought two world wars in the last 30 years for our principles and if necessary we will fight again to preserve them."

Gen. Kenney said that military preparedness is the only way this country can guarantee its future, and that there will be no peace if this country is too weak to fight for it.

Gen Kenney also declared: "We sincerely want peace, we want to avoid war, but not at the expense of our freedom. We want the kind of peace that goes with 'government of the people, (Continued on Page Two)

YOUNG RIOTS ON STATE CAMPUS BRING CENSURE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—The Ohio State university student body was censured today by the deans of men and women following a series of "young riots" on the campus yesterday.

The annual "frosh freeze-out" dance at Valley Dale, near Columbus, which was to have climaxed the traditional "Ditch Night," was cancelled at the last minute by Dean of Men Joseph A. Park and Dean of Women Christine Y. Conway.

Dean Park told a group of students gathered to board chartered buses to the dance that their conduct was a "disgrace."

The rumpus started because of the traditional one-day "Ditch Night" revolt of pledges against activities in fraternities and sororities. From 3 a. m., until dark gangs roamed the campus, seizing men, stripping them to their shorts, and daubing them with paint. Some were abducted, taken to the country, and forced to walk home. One youth, William Tomhate, 20, suffered a broken arm.

Co-ed activities were seized and dunked, clothes and all, in cold showers. Autos were pushed on sorority porches. Numerous harassed property owners called the campus police, but no arrests were made.

Gen. Kenney said that military preparedness is the only way this country can guarantee its future, and that there will be no peace if this country is too weak to fight for it.

Gen. Kenney also declared: "We sincerely want peace, we want to avoid war, but not at the expense of our freedom. We want the kind of peace that goes with 'government of the people, (Continued on Page Two)'

YOUNG RIOTS ON STATE CAMPUS BRING CENSURE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—The Ohio State university student body was censured today by the deans of men and women following a series of "young riots" on the campus yesterday.

The annual "frosh freeze-out" dance at Valley Dale, near Columbus, which was to have climaxed the traditional "Ditch Night," was cancelled at the last minute by Dean of Men Joseph A. Park and Dean of Women Christine Y. Conway.

Dean Park told a group of students gathered to board chartered buses to the dance that their conduct was a "disgrace."

The rumpus started because of the traditional one-day "Ditch Night" revolt of pledges against active in fraternities and sororities. From 3 a. m. until dark gangs roamed the campus, seizing men, stripping them to their shorts, and daubing them with paint. Some were abducted, taken to the country, and forced to walk home. One youth, William Tomhate, 20, suffered a broken arm.

Co-ed activists were seized and dunked, clothes and all, in cold showers. Autos were pushed on sorority porches. Numerous harassed property owners called the campus police, but no arrests were made.

DUCK HUNTER DROWNS

Griggs wrote that the bomb was "a small one, weighing about 13 pounds" and "functioned perfectly."

In the article, which bore a parenthetical note to the effect that the information had been transmitted from Moscow by way of Prague, Griggs declared that the experts who witnessed the explosion returned to the Soviet capital at the end of June.

SECRETARY of the Communist central committee Andrei Zhdanov reportedly personally represented Stalin at the test.

Ever since, they have been working in "ultra-secrecy," preparing reports to Premier Stalin.

ONLY FIVE days ago, on the eve of Moscow's celebration of the October revolution's thirtieth anniversary, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov electrified the world by stating the atom-bomb secret has "long ceased to exist."

American and British experts at that time expressed conviction that, even if the Russians had the "secret" of the bomb, it would take years for them to manufacture the weapon.

L'Intransigent's story climaxed months-long reports of extensive Soviet atomic experiments in the ural mountains, a thousand miles to the west of the Lake Baikal area.

AS FAR back as last year, there were reports published extensively throughout Western Europe to the effect that Danish and Swedish scientists were cooperating with Russian savants in nuclear energy experiments.

These experiments supposedly were designed to find a cheap and plentiful source of atomic energy in lead, though American scientists maintained that the uranium and plutonium elements are the only ones satisfactory for use in atomic weapons.

POLAND ASKS UN SANCTIONS AGAINST SPAIN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 11—Poland called on the United Nations today to invoke economic and diplomatic sanctions against Franco Spain as provided in article forty-one of the U. N. charter.

The Polish demands were presented on behalf of the Soviet bloc in the political and security committee as a booster to the standing 1946 resolution of the general assembly, which recommended the recall of all ambassadorial staffs from Madrid.

Meanwhile, the compromise plan on the partition of Palestine, is before the Palestine committee. Britain is expected to serve notice on the U. N. that the plan is unacceptable.

Hughes Testifies That He Made Not One Cent Out Of War Contracts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Howard Hughes testified today that he "didn't make one cent out of the war" and charged that senate investigators were ready to issue an unfavorable report against him.

Hughes gave the senate war investigating committee a recital of his "contributions" to the war effort. He coupled with this a denial of a committee claim that he made 13 and one-half million dollars in war profits.

"If I made 15 million dollars I made it selling oil well tools and beer down in Texas," Hughes declared. "I don't think the public should be led to believe I made 15 millions on war contracts when I didn't."

Hughes' rebuttal came after he disclosed that Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers hoped to make a million dollars profit through a "golden opportunity" to buy 10 million dollars in government bonds as they went on the market.

HUGHES SAID Meyers, who later passed on the airman's photoplane contract with the air forces, was "furious" because he refused to make the $200,000 loan.

Hughes said Meyers proposed to purchase the government bonds as they were issued, rather than on the open market. He said Meyers told him he had "a golden opportunity to buy at a very favorable price."

But the witness testified that he knew none of the details on how the then-officer was to get the "favorable price."

Hughes opened his denial of the committee profit-and-tax allegations against his companies by saying:

"I FEEL the committee's report on this matter certainly is not going to enhance my reputation in any way. I feel there is no hope of persuading the committee to issue a favorable report."

Hughes said he and his engineers were "solely responsible" for inventing and developing two pieces of machine-gun equipment which he claimed saved many lives of airplane gunners during the war.

He said these were a flexible feed chute and an electrically driven ammunition belt—both of which eliminated the need to reload machine guns in combat.

FORMER FATAL OPERATION IS SAVER OF LIFE

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 11—Two Salt Lake City surgeons today were credited with performing successfully a chest operation that has been fatal in all former known cases.

The operation, it was revealed, was performed July 31 on Jimmy McCammon, 5, of Georgetown, Idaho, several days after he had tripped and fallen on the open blade of a pocket knife.

The blade passed over the left collarbone, into the neck and through the chest, severing the thoracic duct, the largest passage of the lymphatic channels, which carries the life-giving substance, chyle, into the veins of the neck.

The operation was performed after Jimmy complained of a sharp pain in his left chest and his chest cavity was found so full of fluid that the left lung had crowded the heart to the right side.

The family doctor, who drained the fluid several times for temporary relief, said the thoracic duct, which follows the spine, was sending chyle into the cavity instead of into the blood veins.

Although doctors said that only 60 cases of this kind were known, and all had proved fatal, the family agreed to a special operation.

Surgeons located the thin membrane wall of the duct and tied it above and below the cut, in hope that smaller lymph channels would take over the work of pouring chyle into the blood. Jimmy went home Aug. 8, and a recent examination proved he has recovered.

son testified as the story of the clandestine love affair between the two was unfolded to the coroner's jury.

The 32-year-old Mrs. Marsh, however, sobbed out an account of her husband's unfaithfulness. She testified she was aware "a love affair had been going on since July."

MRS. MARSH said her husband took a gun and rushed from home when she told him Friday the Andersons were going to reconcile past differences and move to "a new environment."

Anderson's sister, Melba, told of Marsh's coming to the Anderson home. She related how the farmer killed her brother and Muhlreim and then fled with Mrs. Anderson.

The jury returned a verdict stating the two victims died instantly of gunshot wounds inflicted "over a love affair. Glenn Marsh was carrying on with Vernon Anderson's wife over a period of months."

Marsh had surrendered early Sunday morning after being sought in several states. He told police he had come back "to face the music."

Authorities found three love letters from Mrs. Anderson to Marsh under the back seat of his car.

VICTORY OVER HATE IS URGED BY POPE PIUS

ROME, Nov. 11—Pope Pius XII called on world leaders in an Armistice Day address today to devote themselves to achieving victory over "hate and distrust that throw up barriers among peoples."

The Holy Father made his remarks to members of the touring senate appropriations committee headed by Sen. Guy Cordon (R) Ore., declaring:

"This is a day which your national calendar marks off as particularly memorable in recent annals."

"Certainly for those who go back 30 years or more it is a day crowded with memories—Memories of harrowing scenes of battle and seemingly endless watches of anxious mothers—memories of spontaneous and unrestrained jubilation that drew a veil for the moment over sorrows and irreparable losses."

"Shall we add a sombre-reflection on the price and fruits of war?"

"But there is a victory that does pay dividends. 'It is the victory over hate and distrust that throw up barriers among peoples who only want peace and concord.'"

MOTHER FACES TRIAL IN DEATH OF TWO SONS

RAVENNA, O., Nov. 11—First-degree murder charges were to be filed today by the Putnam county sheriff office against a mother who admitted drowning her two sons in a tub of scolding water.

Sheriff George Shields said the mother, Mrs. Barbara McVeigh, 29, of nearby Geauga-On-The-Lake, would be committed to county jail sometime today after her removal from the prison ward of Robinson Memorial hospital in Ravenna.

Shields said a guard was in attendance at Mrs. McVeigh's bedside but said he had not questioned the woman since she became hysterical last night, shortly after the bodies of her sons, Malcolm, 5, and David, two months, were found.

COSTS OF WAR HIGHER THAN PROPER DEFENSE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11—Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall declared today that the cost of world war two, plus care of its veterans during the next 50 years, will total much more than an adequate American defense program for the same period.

Royall, speaking at an Armistice Day observance at Independence Hall, renewed his plea for peace through a strong defense program.

"War cannot be prevented merely by faith without works," he declared. "We must meet this situation with realism—mental, spiritual and material realism."

Royall pointed out that "all military preparedness... means sacrifices in money and in time."

"The important training of our youth on a universal system is a necessary component of an intelligent defense plan today," he added.

"Even if despite our efforts war should come," Royall continued, "our military preparedness would have made it possible to defend our nation to the maximum against war's catastrophes—and to minimize the death and destruction which any Third World War would otherwise bring with suddenness."

He added that the weakness of our armed forces has been partly responsible for earlier wars into which the nation was drawn.

"I have no reasonable doubt that if our nation had been compared in the late 30s—and had been known to be prepared—Hitler would never have dared to enter on World War II."

COMMUNIST Foe HAS CLOSE CALL WITH ASSASSIN

SEOUL (Korea), Nov. 11—Pak Il An, former South Korean labor party official and anti-Communist, narrowly escaped assassination today when he was fired on by three or four gunmen.

Pak was shot through the wrist. His bodyguard was shot in the head and was not expected to live.

One of the gunmen was captured. His political affiliation was not immediately ascertained.

Pak provided much of the evidence used by Seoul's police chief Chang in rounding up several hundred Communists and other leftists last summer.

Gen. John R. Hodge declared the mass arrests broke up a revolutionary plot that called for seizure of South Korean control Aug. 15.

Soon afterward the Russians, who occupy North Korea, charged that leftists and liberals in South Korea were being "persecuted" and demanded dismissal of Police Chief Chang. Gen. Hodge rejected the demand.

RAVENNA, O., Nov. 11—First-degree murder charges were to be filed today by the Putnam county sheriff office against a mother who admitted drowning her two sons in a tub of scolding water.

Sheriff George Shields said the mother, Mrs. Barbara McVeigh, 29, of nearby Geauga-On-The-Lake, would be committed to county jail sometime today after her removal from the prison ward of Robinson Memorial hospital in Ravenna.

Shields said a guard was in attendance at Mrs. McVeigh's bedside but said he had not questioned the woman since she became hysterical last night, shortly after the bodies of her sons, Malcolm, 5, and David, two months, were found.

COSTS OF WAR HIGHER THAN PROPER DEFENSE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11—Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall declared today that the cost of world war two, plus care of its veterans during the next 50 years, will total much more than an adequate American defense program for the same period.

Royall, speaking at an Armistice Day observance at Independence Hall, renewed his plea for peace through a strong defense program.

"War cannot be prevented merely by faith without works," he declared. "We must meet this situation with realism—mental, spiritual and material realism."

Royall pointed out that "all military preparedness... means sacrifices in money and in time."

"The important training of our youth on a universal system is a necessary component of an intelligent defense plan today," he added.

"Even if despite our efforts war should come" Royall continued, "our military preparedness would have made it possible to defend our nation to the maximum against war's catastrophes—and to minimize the death and destruction which any Third World War would otherwise bring with suddenness."

He added that the weakness of our armed forces has been partly responsible for earlier wars into which the nation was drawn.

"I have no reasonable doubt that if our nation had been compared in the late 30s—and had been known to be prepared—Hitler would never have dared to enter on World War II."

OPTIMISM ON NEW FACTORY SHOWN IN CITY

C Of C Believes Circleville Will Be Site Choice At Meeting Nov. 20

Chamber of Commerce officials voiced optimism Tuesday relative to establishment in Circleville of a factory by a nationally known company for which 1,302 women and men recently registered for employment.

The decision on locating the plant is scheduled to be made when the company's board of directors meet Nov. 20 in New York City.

It was disclosed Tuesday that another concern is now investigating the possibilities of Circleville as site for a new factory.

In connection with plans for building a new $2,500,000 assembly plant in this city the Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio State Employment Service a few weeks ago conducted a city-wide drive to list potential workers, and a list of 1,302 names was sent to the company's officials at New York City. The names were those of 976 women and 326 men.

At the start of the 10-day registration the goal was to obtain employment applications from at least 500 women and 100 men. It was stated that a factory site had already been selected in Circleville and that the locating of the plant here was largely dependent on obtaining a sufficient number of applications for jobs. The name of the company remains undisclosed.

THROUGH the Great Books Foundation, sponsored by the University of Chicago, community groups are studying and discussing the world's classics. Inexpensive pocket-sized reprints of the hard-to-find volumes are issued by the Foundation. Members of these groups, on their way to work of a morning, can whip out something like Plato's Republic and read a good bit of dialogue before they settle to duties at desk or counter.

These modern students reading the old masters discover how well their ideas fit today's thought and spiritual needs. Take this Republic, for example. In it Plato attempts to set forth the thoughts of his great teacher, Socrates. Both lived more than 400 years before Christ. Yet observe the "Christian" doctrine in such a saying of the "pagan" Socrates as this:

"God is true both in word and deed; he changes not; he deceives not, either by sign or word, by dream or waking vision."

These modern students, too, will be startled to learn how many pat phrases used in everyday speech have come down directly from those far away authors, as for instance, the good old saying, "Necessity is the mother of invention." Right out of Plato—and probably not new to him.

This age, like every one before it, thinks of itself as producing a pattern all its own, forgetting there's nothing really new under the sun.

DANGEROUS MIXTURES

"GASOLINE and alcohol do not mix" is an adage heartily endorsed by the American Automobile Association. At its annual convention in Washington recently officials gave much attention to the increasing number of traffic accidents traced to intoxicated drivers. The association condemned the sale of liquor at any place where gasoline also is sold. This resolution was applauded by the Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., through its president.

The liquor dealers themselves are against combining drinking with driving.

They use the highways, too, and don't relish being smashed up, either. They put it like this: "When you drink, don't drive. When you drive, don't drink!"

FOOTBALL

DESPITE all the worries weighing down the poor old world, a lot of people have a lot of time and money to spend on fun. More than 84,000 people saw Notre Dame trounce the Navy's gridiron heroes. This was only one game of dozens played by college athletes in all parts of the country with enthusiastic fans following their progress.

When one gets too depressed over Russian unpleasantness, high cost of living or antics of politicians, he can just think about all the people who are taking football seriously, and for the moment, at least, he can smile and relax.

We used to read of bank robberies as regular procedure, but now the crooks in some areas are starting to rob grocery stores.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The State Department has run into rough weather because of its dismissal of a number of employees whose loyalty is doubted. The argument is set forth that these men should not have been dismissed without trial. They have hired counsel to fight dismissal.

In a word, their assumption is that they have a vested interest in their job, that once having been appointed, they cannot be fired except at considerable inconvenience. An employer ought to be able to fire anyone he distrusts whose presence is obnoxious. Does the employer have to wait until his safe has been robbed, his correspondence stolen and carbon copies of his papers distributed where they do not belong? Can he take no steps to protect himself?

In this instance, the State Department is protecting the United States of America. It ought to be free to fire anyone whose loyalty is in question, is doubted, is suspected. Those who do not court suspicion are not often suspected.

I am minded of what Professor Sidney Hook calls a befuddled decision by James L. Fly in the matter of the wise and sound dismissal of an employee of the National Council of Jewish Women. This organization discovered that one of its employees was conducting subversive activities and fired her on the charge of "... having subverted in her official capacity the policies of the organization by urging co-operation of local sections with Communist-front organizations, with having substituted Communist reading lists for the Council's in her recommendations to the sections, with preparing biased materials in a Child Study Survey which systematically denigrate American achievements and glorify those of Communist Russia, and with a number of other specific actions or related character."

Thereupon her union kicked up a row. According to Professor Hook: "... The record of one of the grievance hearings relating to the discharge, introduced into evidence and accepted by Mr. Fly, shows that the secretary of the local is a self-confessed member of the Communist Party. ..." So James Fly sat in the matter as between the employer who was being betrayed and the worker who admitted it but claimed that she could not be fired anyhow. This is what Fly said about the dismissed gal's book-list which she distributed:

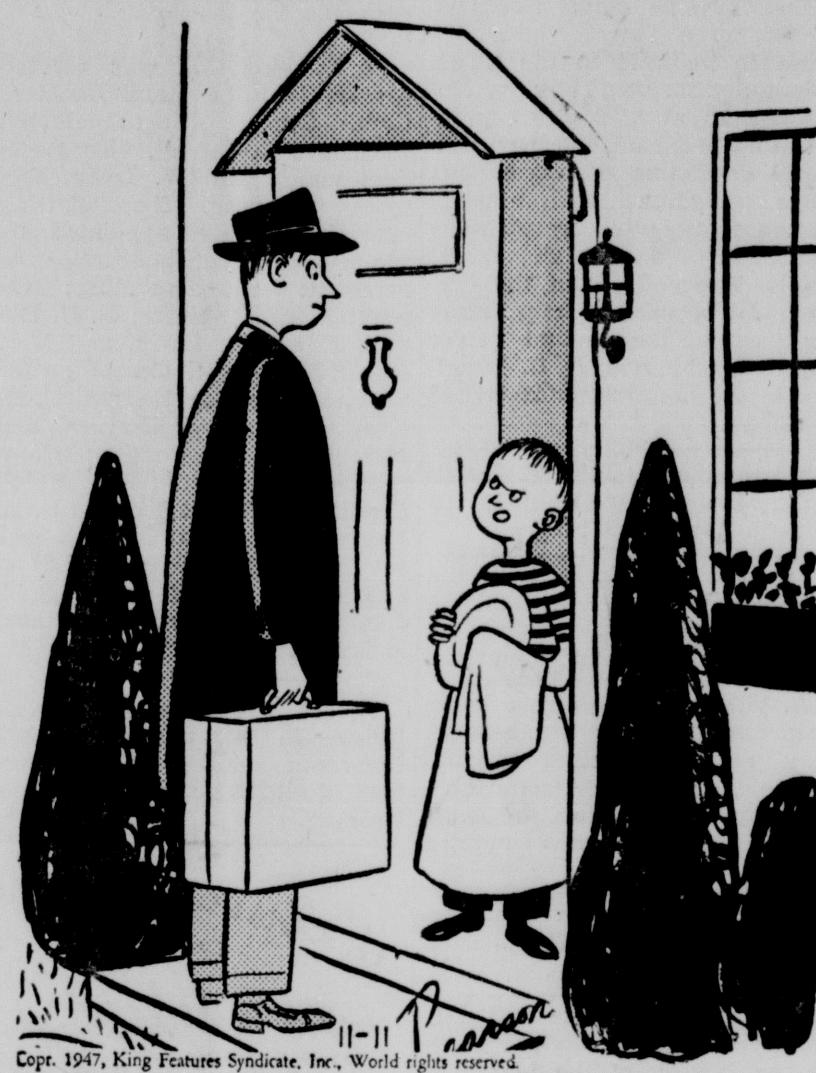

"It is the arbitrator's conclusion, after considering the character of the area secretary's lists, the type of lists issued by the Council, her failure to clear her lists with the Education Department, and the number and type of materials she selected in addition to that already used by Council, that the area secretary deviated from the Council's policy and program in recommending her list of books, organizations and publications in Kansas City, St. Louis and Leavenworth."

I could go on quoting all the unfavorable things that Brother Fly says about the dismissed employee. He makes it clear that she was on her own, that she was not serving her employer, not following instructions, not protecting those who paid her salary. All that is clear in Fly's decision.

But, says he, give her back her job. Give her all her former responsibilities and pay. Why? Apparently, as far as I can follow Mr. Fly's logic, because the Council was inefficient in not catching her before they discovered what she was. In other words, since the employer hired her, the employer is responsible for conduct, but they cannot fire even if she betrayed their trust.

DIET AND HEALTH

The Aged Need To Exercise

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH more and more people living to a ripe old age, the problems of the elderly are increasingly important nowadays. One of these has to do with the amount of exercise needed by those in the last decades of life.

Since we all tend to become less vigorous and active as we get older, the problem for most elderly people is not one of too much exercise but rather of too little. Some few, for whom the later years have brought undreamed-of leisure, may exercise too much.

Exercise Important
One thing, however, is certain—no matter how old the human body is, it requires a certain amount of physical movement to keep it in trim. Thus, the worst thing of all for the elderly person is to take no exercise at all.

Led Active Lives
People who have always led active outdoor lives can safely continue more vigorous sports than those of the same age who, for many years, have followed quieter and more confining pursuits. The latter are likely to have soft, flabby muscles, and they must realize that the heart, also being a muscle, will be in a somewhat similar condition. It can be built up by gradually increasing activity, but any overstrain at the start may result in severe heart damage.

All physicians are fairly well agreed that one of the best exercises for the elderly is walking. Walking has a number of advantages. The speed and length of the walk can be adjusted to a person's condition. There is no reason for overtraining, because, when symptoms of fatigue develop, the walk can be cut short.

Walking is available at all seasons and in practically any kind of weather. Of course, walking on hard pavement is not as comfortable or as desirable as a cross-country hike. Furthermore there is more interest in hiking across the country with a constant change of scenery than there is in a walk through the city.

Walking with the companionship of others has added benefits in the form of relaxation and mental stimulation.

Deep Breathing
It is a good idea to cultivate the habit of deep breathing and erect posture during walking. These add to the benefits by building up the circulation bringing more oxygen to the tissues, and carrying off wastes more rapidly.

There are a number of other exercises available for the elderly, such as horseback riding, gardening, bowling, and swimming.

In the case of swimming, however, it must be borne in mind that there is some shock to the system on entering cold water. Chilling may occur and overfatigue is not unusual. The elderly person who is contemplating swimming as a form of exercise should consult his doctor about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S. A.: My father 75 years old has dizzy spell. Will you tell me what could cause this?

Answer: Dizziness is caused by various conditions, among which are constipation, high blood pressure, heart trouble and kidney trouble. Constipation is one of the most frequent causes of dizziness.

It would be advisable for your father to have a thorough examination by a physician to determine if any of these conditions are present. He should have his blood pressure taken and his urine examined; then it will be possible to suggest the proper treatment.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THE CROWD had thinned and Philip was at the door bidding the general and his wife good-night. Tim left, walking slowly away toward the stairs and then Edna was coming across the room.

"Miss Nicola," she said almost sadly. "I can go along for months not thinking of her very much and then I begin to miss her dreadfully. But she's promised to come next month and she does take her promises seriously. . . . And so another Christmas slips into the past tense."

The past tense, Allison thought. Teresa had had her day with Sam and Suzy had had hers with her daddy and Sam his with both of them. What had happened at the farm today was finished and in the past tense and therefore a memory. And your memories were not only things you were really sure of. Was their memory of today sweet enough for the foundation of a new beginning? A marriage or another mating?

The candles were flickering low and the servants were gathering up the dishes and glasses and moving the furniture to its accustomed places and finding lost gloves and cigarette cases.

One's life reached a point where it was like a room after a party. Allison thought. The lights in it burn low and people, like furniture, are moved from their fixed, familiar places and things that don't belong are carefully left behind. She wondered how she could make the lights in her glow warmly again, loving life for the simple fact of being, and how, loving Sam, she could remove him from her heart. And there was Tim, left over from the war. And there was Philip. Careless Teresa had left Philip as others today had carelessly left their gloves and cigarette cases. And she could no more ignore him than Edna could these insensible personal articles.

Philip came to her and put his arm around her tenderly. "Well, Allison, the party's over!"

Her eyes were the color of the sky before a snowfall. Yes, it's all over, Philip, except the things people left behind, things they will miss a little from time to time and perhaps will never see again. Without the things they left at Teresa's left me. Gloves and cigarette cases, left-overs from a party. You, Philip, alive and honest and good, and left-over from my sister's life . . .

As Edna drove her back to Teresa's she said, "I called on Miss Winstead the other day to see how she was getting on. You slip over the line into being too old so quickly you can't believe it. Well, Edna shook her head negatively.

"The prognosis isn't good. I can't help but think how much better it would have been if Winnie had married her worthless lover. There's almost nothing quite as bad as a thing unfinished. She'll always tell herself that if she had married him, perhaps she would have reformed him of his evil habits and they would have been happy together. You think of her as an old woman, don't you? When love comes late to a woman, the emotional impact is terrific. When I think of her and her man, whoever he was, and when I think of Donald, my husband, and myself, I have a hard time believing in justice."

"Why?"

"Because it seems to me it would have been more just if Donald had been a better man. She's a poor insignificant, almost old woman living next door to charity. Who cares what she feels and endures? If she were young and beautiful she'd be a figure of tragedy. She'd have news value. But I care. Perhaps it's the caring of one lonely woman for another. We are not all born beautiful, though there are many times when we'd give 10 years of our lives just to feel beautiful. That's what Donald did for me. He made me feel beautiful. For the five years we had together I really believed that I was."

"Only five years?"

"Yes. He was a handsome man. I always knew when people met us for the first time they thought, 'Why on earth did he marry her?' Not for my material resources. He had a great deal more money than my parents left me. He loved me—it was simply that—and to him I was pretty. He liked to buy me jewels and furs. But he wasn't kidding himself or me. It took me a long time to realize, too long, that he really thought I was beautiful. He turned his head and looked at Allison. "Speaking of Miss Winstead's prognosis reminds me that Nicola's isn't good either, I'm afraid. I wouldn't worry about her if, by some miracle, she would never grow a day older. It's funny but there's a time when you're too young to do the things you want to do and a time when you're too old for the things you want to do to be becoming to you. The time between, the right time for everything, is so short. You slip over the line into being too old so quickly you can't believe it. Well,

OLD TRUTHS STILL NEW

THROUGH the Great Books Foundation, sponsored by the University of Chicago, community groups are studying and discussing the world's classics. Inexpensive pocket-sized reprints of the hard-to-find volumes are issued by the Foundation. Members of these groups, on their way to work of a morning, can whip out something like Plato's Republic and read a good bit of dialogue before they settle to duties at desk or counter.

These modern students reading the old masters discover how well their ideas fit today's thought and spiritual needs. Take this Republic, for example. In it Plato attempts to set forth the thoughts of his great teacher, Socrates. Both lived more than 400 years before Christ. Yet observe the "Christian" doctrine in such a saying of the "pagan" Socrates as this:

"God is true both in word and deed; he changes not; he deceives not, either by sign or word, by dream or waking vision."

These modern students, too, will be startled to learn how many pat phrases used in everyday speech have come down directly from those far away authors, as for instance, the good old saying, "Necessity is the mother of invention." Right out of Plato—and probably not new to him.

This age, like every one before it, thinks of itself as producing a pattern all its own, forgetting there's nothing really new under the sun.

DANGEROUS MIXTURES

"GASOLINE and alcohol do not mix" is an adage heartily endorsed by the American Automobile Association. At its annual convention in Washington recently officials gave much attention to the increasing number of traffic accidents traced to intoxicated drivers. The association condemned the sale of liquor at any place where gasoline also is sold. This resolution was applauded by the Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., through its president.

The liquor dealers themselves are against combining drinking with driving.

They use the highways, too, and don't relish being smashed up, either. They put it like this: "When you drink, don't drive. When you drive, don't drink!"

FOOTBALL

DESPITE all the worries weighing down the poor old world, a lot of people have a lot of time and money to spend on fun. More than 84,000 people saw Notre Dame trounce the Navy's gridiron heroes. This was only one game of dozens played by college athletes in all parts of the country with enthusiastic fans following their progress.

When one gets too depressed over Russian unpleasantness, high cost of living or antics of politicians, he can just think about all the people who are taking football seriously, and for the moment, at least, he can smile and relax.

We used to read of bank robberies as regular procedure, but now the crooks in some areas are starting to rob grocery stores.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The State Department has run into rough weather because of its dismissal of a number of employees whose loyalty is doubted. The argument is set forth that these men should not have been dismissed without trial. They have hired counsel to fight dismissal.

In a word, their assumption is that they have a vested interest in their job, that once having been appointed, they cannot be fired except at considerable inconvenience. An employer ought to be able to fire anyone he distrusts whose presence is obnoxious. Does the employer have to wait until his safe has been robbed, his correspondence stolen and carbon copies of his papers distributed where they do not belong? Can he take no steps to protect himself?

In this instance, the State Department is protecting the United States of America. It ought to be free to fire anyone whose loyalty is in question, is doubted, is suspected. Those who do not court suspicion are not often suspected.

I am minded of what Professor Sidney Hook calls a befuddled decision by James L. Fly in the matter of the wise and sound dismissal of an employee of the National Council of Jewish Women. This organization discovered that one of its employees was conducting subversive activities and fired her on the charge of "... having subverted in her official capacity the policies of the organization by urging co-operation of local sections with Communist-front organizations, with having substituted Communist reading lists for the Council's in her recommendations to the sections, with preparing biased materials in a Child Study Survey which systematically denigrate American achievements and glorify those of Communist Russia, and with a number of other specific actions or related character."

Thereupon her union kicked up a row. According to Professor Hook: "... The record of one of the grievance hearings relating to the discharge, introduced into evidence and accepted by Mr. Fly, shows that the secretary of the local is a self-confessed member of the Communist Party. ... So James Fly sat in the matter as between the employer who was being betrayed and the worker who admitted it but claimed that she could not be fired anyhow. This is what Fly said about the dismissed gal's book-list which she distributed:

"It is the arbitrator's conclusion, after considering the character of the area secretary's lists, the type of lists issued by the Council, her failure to clear her lists with the Education Department, and the number and type of materials she selected in addition to that already used by Council, that the area secretary deviated from the Council's policy and program in recommending her list of books, organizations and publications in Kansas City, St. Louis and Leavenworth."

I could go on quoting all the unfavorable things that Brother Fly says about the dismissed employee. He makes it clear that she was on her own, that she was not serving her employer, not following instructions, not protecting those who paid her salary. All that is clear in Fly's decision.

But, says he, give her back her job. Give her all her former responsibilities and pay. Why? Apparently, as far as I can follow Mr. Fly's logic, because the Council was inefficient in not catching her before they discovered what she was. In other words, since the employer hired her, the employer is responsible for conduct, but they cannot fire even if she betrayed their trust.

The Aged Need To Exercise

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WITH more and more people living to a ripe old age, the problems of the elderly are increasingly important nowadays. One of these has to do with the amount of exercise needed by those in the last decades of life.

Since we all tend to become less vigorous and active as we get older, the problem for most elderly people is not one of too much exercise but rather of too little. Some few, for whom the later years have brought undreamed-of leisure, may exercise too much.

Exercise Important
One thing, however, is certain—no matter how old the human body is, it requires a certain amount of physical movement to keep it in trim. Thus, the worst thing of all for the elderly person is to take no exercise at all.

To be beneficial instead of harmful, exercise must be suited to the individual's general physical condition which, in turn, is largely determined by the habits of his earlier life.

Led Active Lives
People who have always led active outdoor lives can safely continue more vigorous sports than those of the same age who, for many years, have followed quieter and more confining pursuits. The latter are likely to have soft, flabby muscles, and they must realize that the heart, also being a muscle, will be in a somewhat similar condition. It can be built up by gradually increasing activity, but any overstrain at the start may result in severe heart damage.

All physicians are fairly well agreed that one of the best exercises for the elderly is walking. Walking has a number of advantages. The speed and length of the walk can be adjusted to a person's condition. There is no reason for overtraining, because, when symptoms of fatigue develop, the walk can be cut short.

Deep Breathing
It is a good idea to cultivate the habit of deep breathing and erect posture during walking. These add to the benefits by building up the circulation bringing more oxygen to the tissues, and carrying off wastes more rapidly.

There are a number of other exercises available for the elderly, such as horseback riding, gardening, bowling, and swimming.

In the case of swimming, however, it must be borne in mind that there is some shock to the system on entering cold water. Chilling may occur and overfatigue is not unusual. The elderly person who is contemplating swimming as a form of exercise should consult his doctor about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
S. A.: My father 75 years old has dizzy spell. Will you tell me what could cause this?

Answer: Dizziness is caused by various conditions, among which are constipation, high blood pressure, heart trouble and kidney trouble. Constipation is one of the most frequent causes of dizziness.

It would be advisable for your father to have a thorough examination by a physician to determine if any of these conditions are present. He should have his blood pressure taken and his urine examined; then it will be possible to suggest the proper treatment.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT
THE CROWD had thinned and Philip was at the door bidding the general and his wife good-night. Tim left, walking slowly away toward the stairs and then Edna was coming across the room.

"I miss Nicola," she said almost sadly. "I can go along for months not thinking of her very much and then I begin to miss her dreadfully. But she's promised to come next month and she does take her promises seriously. ... And so another Christmas slips into the past tense."

The past tense, Allison thought. Teresa had had her day with Sam and Suzy had had hers with her daddy and Sam his with both of them. What had happened at the farm today was finished and in the past tense and therefore a memory. And your memories were the only things you were really sure of. Was their memory of today sweet enough for the foundation of a new beginning? A marriage or another mating?

The candles were flickering low and the servants were gathering up the dishes and glasses and moving the furniture to its accustomed places and finding lost gloves and cigarette cases.

One's life reached a point where it was like a room after a party. Allison thought. The lights in it burn low and people, like furniture, are moved from their fixed, familiar places and things that don't belong are carefully left behind. She wondered how she could make the lights in her glow warmly again, loving life for the simple fact of being, and how, loving Sam, she could remove him from her heart. And there was Tim, left over from the war. And there was Philip. Carelessly Teresa had left Philip as others today had carelessly left their gloves and cigarette cases. And she could no more ignore him than Edna could these insensible personal articles.

Philip came to her and put his arm around her tenderly. "Well, Allison, the party's over." Her eyes were the color of the sky before a snowfall. Yes, it's all over. Philip, except the things people left behind, things they will miss a little from time to time and perhaps will need but can live without, the things they left as Teresa left me. Gloves and cigarette cases, left-overs from a party. You, Philip, alive and honest and good, and left-over from my sister's life. ...

As Edna drove her back to Teresa's she said, "I called on Miss Winstead the other day to see how she was getting on." "How is she?" Edna shook her head negatively.

"The prognosis isn't good. I can't help but think how much better it would have been if Winnie had married her worthless lover. There's almost nothing quite as bad as a thing unfinished. She'll always tell herself that if she had married him, perhaps she would have reformed him of his evil habits and they would have been happy together. You think of her as an old woman, don't you? When love comes late to a woman, the emotional impact is terrific. When I think of her and her man, who ever he was, and when I think of Donald, my husband, and myself, I have a hard time believing in justice."

"Why?" "Because it seems to me it would have been more just if Donald had lived and Winnie's man had died. In death she could have been his grieving widow. She'd be far happier than she is now, living in dreams of what might have been if thus and so had or had not happened and wondering where he is and being very sure he's in need and needs her. Yes, I know. She's a poor insignificant, almost old woman living next door to charity. Who cares what she feels and endures? If she were young and beautiful she'd be a figure of tragedy. She'd have news value. But I care. Perhaps it's the caring of one homely woman for another. We are not all born beautiful, though there are many times when we'd give 10 years of our lives just to feel beautiful. That's what Donald did for me. He made me feel beautiful. For the five years we had together I really believed that I was."

"Only five years?" "Yes. He was a handsome man. I always knew when people met us for the first time they thought, 'Why on earth did he marry her?' Not for my material resources. He had a great deal more money than my parents left me. He loved me—it was simply that—and to him I was pretty. He liked to buy me jewels and furs. But he wasn't kidding himself or me. It took me a long time to realize, too long, that he really thought I was beautiful. She turned her head and looked at Allison. "Speaking of Miss Winstead's prognosis reminds me that Nicola's isn't good either. I'm afraid. I wouldn't worry about her if, by some miracle, she would never grow a day older. It's funny but there's a time when you're too young to do the things you want to do and a time when you're too old for the things you want to do to be becoming to you. The time between, the right time for everything, is so short. You slip over the line into being too old so quickly you can't believe it. Well, here you are home. I'm having lunch with Teresa tomorrow. She'll talk about Sam as if they've never been married." "Thank you for a memorable Christmas, Edna." "Philip and I wanted you, dear. We always want you when you want to come. The house needs a young hostess with trailing velvet gowns and dewy with diamonds. The setting is there but the jewels are absent—the mother and the children. It's too big a house for a widow and a bachelor. Give Suzy my love. ..."

She found Suzy playing with her toys in the living room. Toys spread over the velvet gray rug in the lovely formal room was another innovation that could indubitably be traced directly to Sam.

Annette willingly and laughingly explained it. "Mr. Tarrant said it was too cold and drafty for her to play upstairs in her room. So he brought all of her things down here. I put 'em behind the sofa at night before I leave so you can't see 'em, but the next day she drags 'em all out again. I just can't keep this room lookin' like anything."

"Don't apologize. I like it this way." Suzy patted a place on the rug. "Sit down with me, Allison. Look at my books. ... pictures. ..."

When Allison dropped lithely on the rug beside her, Annette said, "See the weight Suzy's takin' on. She eats at Mr. Tarrant's farm. Plenty of cream in the milk she gets there. I can't get her red coat buttoned across her front any more."

"She does look fine." "Suzy got up and ran the length of the room for a particular book. Bringing it back, she put it in Allison's hands. Allison asked, "Who's been reading to you, Suzy?" "My daddy. He reads to me. Now you read to me, please. Read me about the Three Little Pigs."

Time moved hastily to a day in January and, since it was cloudy and overcast, Allison and Suzy remained indoors. The child played on the rug before the hearth and Allison picked up her knitting. Suzy's continuous questions and demands made concentration on shorthand impossible. It was easier to put aside the knitting when Suzy brought her coloring book and asked if the picture she was coloring was good and why was the duck in the picture running away and why couldn't you have green kittens?

A birthday today shows you are shrewd, determined, argumentative and take a strong stand against opposition when you think you are right. You do not like to be driven, but for love you will do a great deal. You have many friends, and are generally happy and entertaining. Today's vibrations are doubtful. Competitors and opponents bear very close watching. Trouble may follow a lot of pleasant talk, so be on your watch. Young people will help you in the next year, but elders will hinder. Safeguard your own health and that of your household, and deal tactfully with employers and authority generally. Adopt unorthodox methods in business. WHAT appears obvious is not necessarily so. The declarer who makes the first few simple plays according to habit—such as putting his lowest card on a trick sure to be won by a defender's top card—will find his laziness punitive in the long run. Every once in a while it will develop that he should have played an unnecessarily high card instead of his lowest. See Hot Organization Meet | GOP Congressional Leaders
On AFL's Political League | To Back Tax Cut Measure

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Expect fireworks at the meeting of 105 American Federation of Labor union presidents in Washington Dec. 5 to organize the Federation's Political League.

A number of union leaders are dissatisfied with the action of the recent AFL convention along this line and contend that it went contrary to an understanding reached at the executive council pow-wow in Chicago.

That session reportedly agreed to set up a board of 15 union presidents to direct the AFL's political activity. However, the convention made no provision for such a move and the union chiefs apparently will be out of the picture after the Dec. 5 session.

The AFL political campaign simply would be directed by a paid staff, presumably under the direction of headquarters officials. Some of the independent union heads do not want to contribute money to such a setup.

TAX AX—GOP leaders in Congress almost certainly will take another whirl at passage of the twice-vetted tax cut bill and their efforts quite probably will meet with success, even should President Truman reject the measure a third time.

The bill to be introduced will be the same $9 to $9 per cent cut for individuals, with an added feature—permission to married couples in all 48 states to split their income for tax purposes, thus providing additional savings by keeping their incomes out of higher surtax brackets. (This practice at present is permitted only in the 10 so-called community property states.)

Two factors are working in favor of the Republicans to give them sufficient voting strength in both houses to muster the two-thirds majority vote necessary to make the bill law over a presidential veto.

First, the community property feature is certain to gain new adherents for the bill, as several senators and some representatives have indicated they would switch from the opposition side when the matter comes up for a vote.

Secondly, and more important politically, some senators and members of the House will want to gain public support by passing the tax cut bill to offset what they believe may be their support for the unpopular but necessary stopgap aid and Marshall Plan legislation.

To many politicians on Capitol Hill, the argument that they should give something to Americans as well as Europeans may prove almost unanswerable.

DISABLED VETS—The Veterans' Administration is finding that disabled vets are proving more efficient than their able-bodied fellows. More than 100,000 disabled veterans are engaged in on-the-job training and their employers report they are more efficient, stick to the job longer, have better safety records and a lower absentee rate.

The disabled vets, handicapped by every conceivable ailment from arthritis to deafness, are training for a multitude of jobs. A few are:

Parents Organizations Have Special Programs

Jackson Township And Walnut School Meetings

Two Pickaway county Parent Teacher organizations met in regular session Monday evening and conducted interesting programs.

Jackson Parents Teachers Society meeting opened with members singing "Star Spangled Banner" in tribute to Armistice day. The high school orchestra played the musical accompaniment. Miss Sue Riser played "Taps" on her trumpet. Mrs. Ben Walker read the Scripture selection. The group then sang, "Onward Christian Soldiers".

Mrs. Harry Kern, president, conducted a brief business session and called for reports from committees. The John Eitel family was named to head the social committee for the December meeting. Miss Helen Kern was named chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Roliff Wolford was in charge of the evening's program, arranged in observance of National Education Week and Armistice Day. The first grade pupils sang "The Merry Go Round" and "Old Mother Hubbard". In unison the third grade pupils recited "Come Little Leaves". Helen Allen, Joan List and Judy Hinton, all first graders, recited appropriate selections.

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley, pastor of the First Methodist church, was guest speaker. He followed the evening's theme and stressed importance of heritage. He said, "so long as heritage is attained and the full meaning of thanksgiving is obtained we have something to live for." Rev. Mr. Kneisley stressed the importance of tying together, schools, churches and homes, with the home the nucleus of the three.

A piano solo from the "Russian Steps" was played by Zoe Dell Riggan. A trumpet duet was presented by Larry Peters and Sue Riser. The selections, "The Band Played On" and "Bicycle Built For Two" by the school orchestra concluded the program. The group retired to the social rooms where a dessert course was served. Each table was decorated with bouquets of chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowling were chairmen of the hospitality committee.

Harold Hines, president, opened the Walnut township Parent Teachers Association meeting with the assembly joining to sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic", when its members gathered in the school building. A report was submitted from the tax levy committee and Robert Barr expressed appreciation to all those who assisted. A motion was made and seconded that the P.T.A. favor an election on the bond issue in 60 days.

Mrs. Robert Norpeth named a committee composed of parents to provide the January program. Carl D. Bennett requested the members to donate used clothing for needy families of the school. The business meeting was then turned over to the program chairmen.

Mrs. Don Collins and Mrs. Ralph Dunkle in their vocal duets sang, "Roses of Picardy" and "Mighty Like a Rose". They were accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Peters. Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, gave a talk on "Childhood Diseases". Richard Valentine sang, "Thanks Be To God" and "I Love A Little Cottage". Refreshments were served in the school cafeteria following the program. A question box to promote discussions will be inaugurated at the next meeting. Prizes will be given at each meeting to stimulate increased attendance.

Miss Reichelderfer Reads Paper Before Monday Club Group

Members of Monday club gathered in regular session at Memorial hall for their bi-monthly meeting.

Mrs. Lemuel B. Weldon was chairman of the program committee and introduced Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer who read a paper on "Colleges and Universities".

Miss Reichelderfer compared the respect and reverence of the American college, one of our oldest living institutions, to the English regard of their monarchy and the French their Army. She said in no other country were there such vast sums of money spent on colleges and universities as in the United States.

"The Pilgrims and the early settlers in the Virginia colonies realized that in a vast new country education leaders were needed." She said, "The Massachusetts colony was the first to meet the need and in 1636 the general court of Massachusetts granted a sum of money for a school to be established at New Town, which later became Cambridge. The college was named 'Harvard', and later became Harvard University.

"Fifty seven years after the founding of Harvard, William and Mary at Williamsburg, Virginia was inaugurated as the second institution of learning. Elihu Yale, a wealthy Englishman, gave liberally for the foundation of Yale College. During the eighteenth century more colleges were established in America, namely, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania, Dartmouth and Columbia University.

"Ohio State University, Columbus, was established in 1870 under the name Ohio Agriculture and Mechanical College. Its present name was given in the year 1878, while today it consists of 10 colleges and a graduate school.

"State universities are found in every state except New York, also in Alaska, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. In addition to state universities, there have been established private and municipal universities, private and junior colleges and denominational colleges."

In conclusion Miss Reichelderfer elaborated on her subject and listed the outstanding features of each type of institution of learning. Since 1940 more institutions of higher learning have been added to the list of over 700 universities and colleges in the United States.

Parents Organizations Have Special Programs

Jackson Township And Walnut School Meetings

Two Pickaway county Parent Teacher organizations met in regular session Monday evening and conducted interesting programs.

Jackson Parents Teachers Society meeting opened with members singing "Star Spangled Banner" in tribute to Armistice day. The high school orchestra played the musical accompaniment. Miss Sue Riser played "Taps" on her trumpet. Mrs. Ben Walker read the Scripture selection. The group then sang, "Onward Christian Soldiers".

Mrs. Harry Kern, president, conducted a brief business session and called for reports from committees. The John Eitel family was named to head the social committee for the December meeting. Miss Helen Kern was named chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Roloff Wolford was in charge of the evening's program, arranged in observance of National Education Week and Armistice Day. The first grade pupils sang "The Merry Go Round" and "Old Mother Hubbard". In union the third grade pupils recited "Come Little Leaves". Helen Allen, Joan List and Judy Hinton, all first graders, recited appropriate selections.

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley, pastor of the First Methodist church, was guest speaker. He followed the evening's theme and stressed importance of heritage. He said, "so long as heritage is attained and the full meaning of thanksgiving is obtained we have something to live for." Rev. Mr. Kneisley stressed the importance of tying together, schools, churches and homes, with the home the nucleus of the three.

A piano solo from the "Russian Steppes" was played by Zoe Dell Riggan. A trumpet duet was presented by Larry Peters and Sue Riser. The selections, "The Band Played On" and "Bicycle Built For Two" by the school orchestra concluded the program. The group retired to the social rooms where a dessert course was served. Each table was decorated with bouquets of chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowling were chairman of the hospitality committee.

Harold Hines, president, opened the Walnut township Parent Teachers Association meeting with the assembly joining to sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic", when its members gathered in the school building. A report was submitted from the tax levy committee and Robert Barr expressed appreciation to all those who assisted. A motion was made and seconded that the P.T.A. favor an election on the bond issue in 60 days.

Mrs. Robert Norpoth named a committee composed of parents to provide the January program. Carl D. Bennett requested the members to donate used clothing for needy families of the school. The business meeting was then turned over to the program chairman.

Mrs. Don Collins and Mrs. Ralph Dunkle in their vocal duets sang, "Roses of Picardy" and "Mighty Like a Rose". They were accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Peters. Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, gave a talk on "Childhood Diseases". Richard Valentine sang, "Thanks Be To God" and "I Love A Little Cottage". Refreshments were served in the school cafeteria following the program. A question box to promote discussions will be inaugurated at the next meeting. Prizes will be given at each meeting to stimulate increased attendance.

HUNT SEASON DRAWING CLOSE; WARNING GIVEN

Gunners Urged To Become
Familiar With Laws
Governing Sport

Saturday at 9 a. m. will be a big moment for hunters who already have oiled the old "blunderbus" and doubled Rover's daily ration in preparation for the opening of the 1947 hunting season.

Although the weapon is ready and the dog is straining at the leash a hunter still is not ready for shooting until he first acquaints himself thoroughly with the rules and regulations of the sport, so here is an abbreviated list of law direct from the office of Law Enforcement Chief Lester C. Bailey, of the Ohio Division of Conservation at Columbus.

Open season on rabbit is November 15 to December 13; daily limit 4 and possession limit 4. Ring-neck pheasant open season November 15 to November 22; daily limit 2 cock birds and possession 2 cock birds. Ruffed grouse season November 15 to November 29; daily limit 2, possession 2. Raccoon open season November 15 to January 15; with a daily limit of 2 and possession limit 2. For opossum the open season runs from November 15 to January 15 with no bag or possession limits. In the inland trapping district the open season on mink and muskrat is November 15 to January 15 and in the Lake Erie trapping district the season begins on November 15 and continues through March 15. There is no bag or possession limit for either district.

There is no open season on skunk or Hungarian partridge.

All dates are inclusive. Rabbits, pheasants and ruffed grouse may be taken only between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. each day of the open season, including opening day. Traps may be set at 9 a. m. on opening day. Raccoon shall not be taken with gun or dog or both before 6 p. m. November 15 and thereafter during the open season only between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. of the following day.

All persons regardless of age are required to secure a license to hunt or trap except owners of land who have been residents of Ohio for one year, or tenants or children of tenants, or manager, if having resided within the state for one year, residing on such lands. These may hunt or trap on such owned or managed lands without a hunting or trapping license. All persons under 16 years of age using firearms to hunt must be accompanied by an adult.

AERIAL 'EYE'

NICE, Nov. 11 — Blind landing systems which provide airline pilots with an electric "eye" will be installed at most European airports during 1948, according to speakers at the recent 10-day convention of the International Air Transport Association. The system makes it possible for the pilot to land safely in all kinds of weather. Inability to obtain the equipment from manufacturers has retarded installation of the system in Europe, although it is in wide use in the United States, South America and Canada.

BIOGRAPHY OF 'BIG TRAIN'
CINCINNATI, Nov. 11 — Cincinnati University recently was commissioned to illustrate a new book on the life of the great baseball pitcher, Walter Johnson who died last year. The story of the "Big Train" is written by Roger L. Treat, sportswriter for the Chicago Herald-American.

ART EXHIBITION

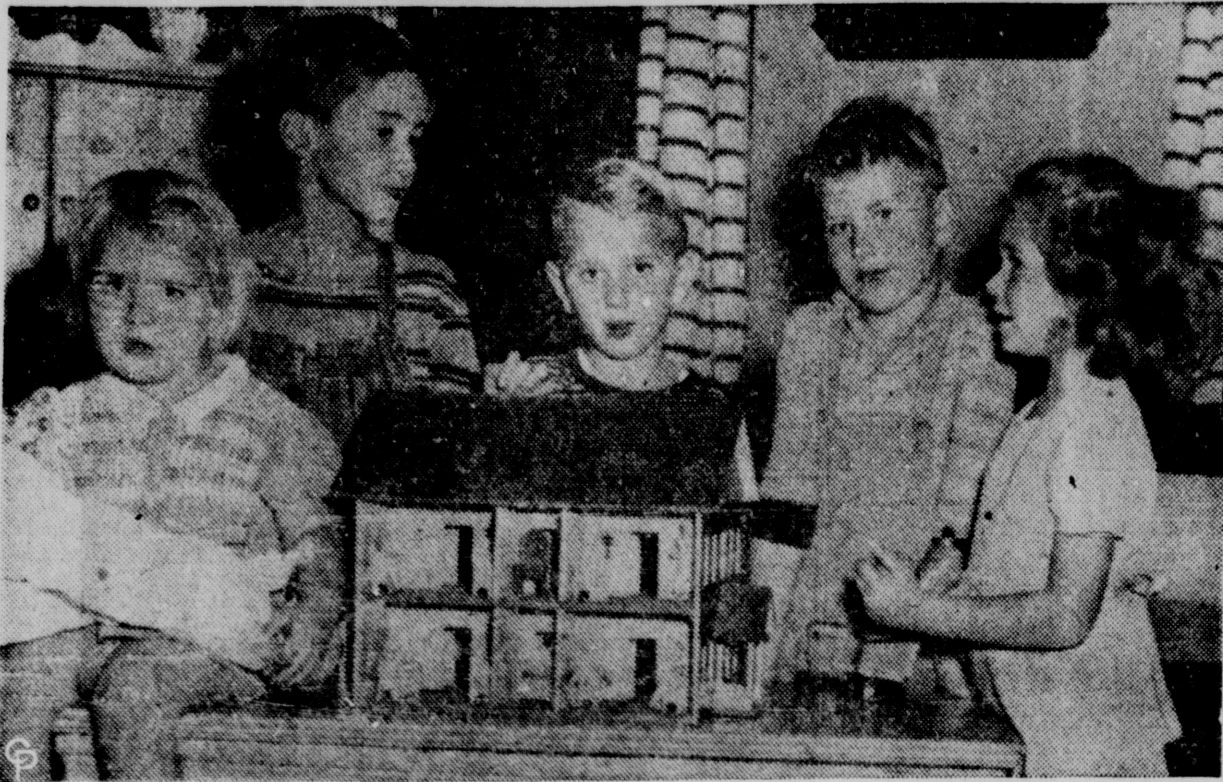

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 — Original illustrations valued at $175,000 are on display at the Philadelphia art alliance. The six-week exhibition includes many of America's best known artists. CHILDREN UNAWARE OF TRAGEDY IN THEIR LIVES

UNAWARE OF THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY that had overtaken their parents, the children of the Anderson and the Marsh families are shown playing together in the Rockford, Ill., Children's Home. They did not yet know that Glenn Marsh, father of two of them, had given himself up and was prepared to face a charge of slaying Vernon Anderson and Anderson's father-in-law, Grant Murkin. Then, it is charged, Marsh kidnapped Mrs. Anderson, mother of three, but she managed to escape after a wild 100-mile auto ride. The two families lived on adjoining farms and, police say, Marsh had fallen in love with Mrs. Anderson. The children are (l. to r.): Karen Anderson, Richard Marsh, Karl and Larry Anderson and Susan Marsh. (International)

AIR FORCE'S NEW 'THUNDERJET' READY TO FIGHT

STREAKING THROUGH THE SKY is the Air Force's new P-84 "Thunderjet" fighter plane which, it has been announced, is now "fully qualified for operational service," following the successful completion of firing tests of its six guns at Farmingdale, Long Island, N. Y. The plane reportedly fired 70,000 rounds of ammunition, with more than 75 per cent of the rounds fired while the craft exceeded 500 miles an hour. This was a 50 per cent faster rate of fire than in guns used in World War II aircraft. (International Soundphoto)

HIGHWAY OFFENSIVE

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 — Bigger and better-trained state police forces are pushing a new offensive against highway hi-jacking and other rural crime. The Council of State Governments reported recently. State police in 37 states now have full police powers and are spending some $42 million a year to curb crime outside cities as well as enforce highway traffic laws. The 11 states where state troopers are still confined to highway patrol duties exclusively are spending another $13 million annually for that purpose alone.

BATHING RESTRICTIONS

LISBON, Nov. 11 — Portuguese bathers, men and women, have to go back to wearing old-fashioned bathing suits again. In the beginning of July this year, men were allowed on the beaches wearing trunks only; and women, were permitted to wear two-piece bathing costumes. Now, as a result of a new ordinance the men must wear tops to their suits, and the women must have their costumes all in one—with a skirt.

LAND VALUES UP

ITHACA, Nov. 11 — C. A. Bratton, extension economist at Cornell stated recently that New York State farm land values have climbed to 60 per cent above the 1935-39 prewar average, and have passed the 1920

World War I high. New York values are still not as high as the average for the rest of the country, however, and have declined slightly since March of this year, Prof. Bratton reported.

FORMER POLISH CHIEF CHEERED BY ESCAPE NEWS

Four Of Seven Friends Who
Aided His Escape From
Reds, Reach Safety

KENTON, Eng., Nov. 11 — Former Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk revealed today that four of the original seven persons who fled Communist-dominated Warsaw with him have escaped safely.

He added that the four—Kasimierz Baginsky and Stephen Korbonsky, both top leaders of Mikolajczyk's Peasant party, and their wives—are expected to arrive in London by midnight.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service at Kenton, where he has been resting since his flight to England, Mikolajczyk said:

"This is the wonderful news which I received last night. "I can not say much more until I have talked with them, but I knew they encountered great hardships in escaping."

Mikolajczyk, who endured hardships himself during a dangerous two-week journey through Russian-dominated Poland and Eastern Germany, said another leader of his opposition party also has escaped.

This one was not among the original seven who fled when the anti-Communist leader escaped from Poland to avoid probably arrest by the leftist regime.

Referring to this other refugee, Mikolajczyk said:

"He called on me this morning. "I can not give you his name because I do not want his relatives, who still are in Poland, to be punished."

Korbonsky, as chairman of the Peasant party, was responsible for sabotage and civilian defense in Warsaw.

Baginsky, a member of the executive committee of the party, was one of 16 underground Polish leaders sentenced to death by Moscow in 1945. He subsequently was released by Polish President Beirut's amnesty.

Frankfurt dispatches had revealed that one of the original group who fled with Mikolajczyk—had left by air with two women. They were enroute to London, and airport officials said they travelled under the sponsorship of the British foreign office.

SUPER-AIRCRAFT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11 — Aircraft able to resist stresses and pressures while flying 1,500 miles-an-hour is now being sought by the U. S. Army and the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics. The amazing speed has been made possible by the development of a 400-pound, 20,000-horsepower ram-jet engine, said John F. Victory, executive secretary of the NACA recently in Pittsburgh. The problem now said Victory, is to find an aircraft capable of withstanding the terrific pressures of compressibility and heat of air friction at the supersonic speed.

GOOD FIR CHRISTMAS

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 11 — A fir makes a good Christmas tree because its needles stick tight and do not fall off rapidly when the tree is cut and dries out. F. R. Lancaster, plant pathologist of the Davey Tree Expert Co. made this statement recently. Needles of the spruce drop very quickly. Fir needles are fragrant; spruce ones have a strong odor.

HUNT SEASON DRAWING CLOSE; WARNING GIVEN

Gunners Urged To Become
Familiar With Laws
Governing Sport

Saturday at 9 a. m. will be a big moment for hunters who already have oiled the old "blunderbus" and doubled Rover's daily ration in preparation for the opening of the 1947 hunting season.

Although the weapon is ready and the dog is straining at the leash a hunter still is not ready for shooting until he first acquaints himself thoroughly with the rules and regulations of the sport, so here is an abbreviated list of law direct from the office of Law Enforcement Chief Lester C. Bailey, of the Ohio Division of Conservation at Columbus.

Open season on rabbit is November 15 to December 13; daily limit 4 and possession limit 4. Ring-neck pheasant open season November 15 to November 22; daily limit 2 cock birds and possession 2 cock birds. Ruffed grouse season November 15 to November 29; daily limit 2, possession 2. Raccoon open season November 15 to January 15; with a daily limit of 2 and possession limit 2. For opossum the open season runs from November 15 to January 15 with no bag or possession limits. In the inland trapping district the open season on mink and muskrat is November 15 to January 15 and in the Lake Erie trapping district the season begins on November 15 and continues through March 15. There is no bag or possession limit for either district.

There is no open season on skunk or Hungarian partridge.

All dates are inclusive. Rabbits, pheasants and ruffed grouse may be taken only between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. each day of the open season, including opening day. Traps may be set at 9 a. m. on opening day. Raccoon shall not be taken with gun or dog or both before 6 p. m. November 15 and thereafter during the open season only between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. of the following day.

All persons regardless of age are required to secure a license to hunt or trap except owners of land who have been residents of Ohio for one year, or tenants or children of tenants, or manager, if having resided within the state for one year, residing on such lands. These may hunt or trap on such owned or managed lands without a hunting or trapping license. All persons under 16 years of age using firearms to hunt must be accompanied by an adult.

AERIAL 'EYE'

NICE, Nov. 11 — Blind landing systems which provide airline pilots with an electric "eye" will be installed at most European airports during 1948, according to speakers at the recent 10-day convention of the International Air Transport Association. The system makes it possible for the pilot to land safely in all kinds of weather. Inability to obtain the equipment from manufacturers has retarded installation of the system in Europe, although it is in wide use in the United States, South America and Canada.

BIOGRAPHY OF 'BIG TRAIN'

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11 — Cincinnati University recently was commissioned to illustrate a new book on the life of the great baseball pitcher, Walter Johnson who died last year. The story of the "Big Train" is written by Roger L. Treat, sportswriter for the Chicago Herald-American.

CHILDREN UNAWARE OF TRAGEDY IN THEIR LIVES

UNAWARE OF THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY that had overtaken their parents, the children of the Anderson and the Marsh families are shown playing together in the Rockford, Ill., Children's Home. They did not yet know that Glenn Marsh, father of two of them, had given himself up and was prepared to face a charge of slaying Vernon Anderson and Anderson's father-in-law, Grant Murlin. Then, it is charged, Marsh kidnapped Mrs. Anderson, mother of three, but she managed to escape after a wild 100-mile auto ride. The two families lived on adjoining farms and, police say, Marsh had fallen in love with Mrs. Anderson. The children are (l. to r.): Karen Anderson, Richard Marsh, Karl and Larry Anderson and Susan Marsh. (International)

AIR FORCE'S NEW 'THUNDERJET' READY TO FIGHT

STREAKING THROUGH THE SKY is the Air Force's new P-84 "Thunderjet" fighter plane which, it has been announced, is now "fully qualified for operational service," following the successful completion of firing tests of its six guns at Farmingdale, Long Island, N. Y. The plane reportedly fired 70,000 rounds of ammunition, with more than 75 per cent of the rounds fired while the craft exceeded 500 miles an hour. This was a 50 per cent faster rate of fire than in guns used in World War II aircraft. (International Soundphoto)

HIGHWAY OFFENSIVE

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 — Bigger and better-trained state police forces are pushing a new offensive against highway hi-jacking and other rural crime the Council of State Governments reported recently. State police in 37 states now have full police powers and are spending some $42 million a year to curb crime outside cities as well as enforce highway traffic laws. The 11 states where state troopers are still confined to highway patrol duties exclusively are spending another $13 million annually for that purpose alone.

BATHING RESTRICTIONS

LISBON, Nov. 11 — Portuguese bathers, men and women, have to go back to wearing old-fashioned bathing suits again. In the beginning of July this year, men were allowed on the beaches wearing trunks only; and women, were permitted to wear two-piece bathing costumes. Now, as a result of a new ordinance the men must wear tops to their suits, and the women must have their costumes all in one—with a skirt.

LAND VALUES UP

ITHACA, Nov. 11 — C. A. Bratton, extension economist at Cornell stated recently that New York State farm land values have climbed to 60 per cent above the 1935-39 prewar average, and have passed the 1920

World War I high. New York values are still not as high as the average for the rest of the country, however, and have declined slightly since March of this year, Prof. Bratton reported.

FORMER POLISH CHIEF CHEERED BY ESCAPE NEWS

Four Of Seven Friends Who
Aided His Escape From
Reds, Reach Safety

KENTON, Eng., Nov. 11 — Former Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk revealed today that four of the original seven persons who fled Communist-dominated Warsaw with him have escaped safely.

He added that the four—Kasimierz Baginsky and Stephen Korbonsky, both top leaders of Mikolajczyk's Peasant party, and their wives—are expected to arrive in London by midnight.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service at Kenton, where he has been resting since his flight to England, Mikolajczyk said:

"This is the wonderful news which I received last night. 'I can not say much more until I have talked with them, but I knew they encountered great hardships in escaping.'"

Mikolajczyk, who endured hardships himself during a dangerous two-week journey through Russian-dominated Poland and Eastern Germany, said another leader of his opposition party also has escaped.

This one was not among the original seven who fled when the anti-Communist leader escaped from Poland to avoid probably arrest by the leftist regime.

Referring to this other refugee, Mikolajczyk said: "He called on me this morning."

"I can not give you his name because I do not want his relatives, who still are in Poland, to be punished."

Korbonsky, as chairman of the Peasant party, was responsible for sabotage and civilian defense in Warsaw.

Frankfurt dispatches had revealed that one of the original group who fled with Mikolajczyk—and believed to be Baginsky—had left by air with two women. They were enroute to London, and airport officials said they travelled under the sponsorship of the British foreign office.

Northwestern Up In Arms; Demand Likely For 'Extra Man' Change

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 11—The football rule penalizing a team having more than 11 men on the field was certain today to come up for heated discussion at the winter meeting of the intercollegiate rules committee.

Of that one can be assured after Northwestern's 7-to-6 loss last Saturday to Ohio State.

The Wildcat campus was plenty up in arms over the penalty called by Head Linesman E. C. Curtiss when he spotted Dick Price still on the playing field as the Buckeyes tossed a desperation pass.

The penalty nullified Tom Worthington's interception of the toss as the clock ran out and eventually led to Ohio State's victory. The Buckeyes had trailed, 6 to 0, at that time.

NORTHWESTERN does not blame Curtiss, however, for blowing his horn on the play.

INJURIES ADD TO PROBLEMS OF BUCK COACH

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—Injuries to five key backfield men were the chief concern of Ohio State coach Wes Fesler today as he readied his Bucks for Saturday's game with Illinois at Ohio Stadium.

Alex Verdova is almost certainly out for the remainder of the season with a rib injury. Joe Whisler may see limited service Saturday despite a bad shoulder, and Pete Perini is also on the doubtful list with a ruptured arm muscle.

Meanwhile, halfbacks Bob Brugge and Dean Sensenbaur showed last week they were not sufficiently recovered from various ailments to be of much use. Whether they can help Saturday is a moot question.

All that poses some very real problems for Fesler—as if that gentleman didn't have enough on his mind.

Dick Fisher, who scouted Illinois three times, brought back reports that were anything but encouraging. The Illini are virtually two deep in veterans from the 1946 Rose Bowl team that slaughtered the Bucks.

Perry Moss is still around to do the Illinois passing, and fellows like Dike Eddleman, Russ Steger, Art Dufelmeier and Chick Maggioni compose a top-notch ball carrying department.

Among other things, Fesler must develop a punter, but quick, if Whisler and Perini, his best booters, aren't available. Ollie Cline is one possibility for the chore, and Fesler intimated he might dip down to the junior varsity and bring up George Gordon, sophomore halfback from Maumee, to kick.

DUCKS DUCK HATCHING

CANTON, Nov. 11—Ducks in South China do not hatch their eggs, reports Father Cyril Hirst, a Maryknoll missioner from Philadelphia. The duck line is continued, however, by the Chinese farmer who takes the eggs from the duck's nest, places them in rice, and keeps the temperature even. Nature does the rest.

They are merely dissatisfied that a rule exists whereby a team may be penalized for having an extra player on the field even though he is obviously out of play.

Northwestern Athletic director Ted Payseur stressed the fact the Wildcats are not protesting Curtiss' calling the infraction of the rules. Nor are they charging that Ohio State trapped Bob Price by eliminating the huddle in an effort to beat the clock.

Northwestern just wants something done about the rule so it won't happen again to any team.

WILDCAT Coach Bob Voigts admitting that Price was on the field when the play was run. He said pictures of the game substantiated that fact.

Voigts declared: "But he wasn't in position to have any effect on the play starting. And he was running away from the play at full speed trying to reach the sideline in time."

Harold (Red) Grange, who saw the game at Columbus, backed up Northwestern's reaction over the rule.

ILLINOIS' erstwhile "Gallop-ing Ghost" declared the "extra man" rule should be clarified. He said Price was "obviously out of the play."

Big Nine Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson awaited a complete report from Referee Russell Rupp, Curtiss and the other officials who handled the game.

However, since there appeared to be no evidence of faulty officiating the game will undoubtedly remain in the record books with the final score: Ohio State 7, Northwestern 6.

PLUMBERS WIN WARM-UP GAME BY 51-21 SCORE

Pettibone Plumbers, Pickaway county's entry in the newly formed Mid-Ohio League ran up a 51-21 score over the New Holland Independents in a warm-up contest Monday night at New Holland.

The scoring punch of the Plumbers was shown early in the game as they scored 12 points before the host team was able to register any points.

The Plumbers are expected to be one of the stronger quintets in the Mid-Ohio.

Don Thomas and "Red" Wilson led the victors in scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively. Hobbie was high for the losers with 7.

The New Holland team is comprised of former New Holland and Atlanta athletes.

SCRIBES PICK BARBERTON AS STATE LEADER

Canton McKinley Steps Up To Second, Ousting Elyria Eleven

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—There'll be few disputes to Barberton's claim to the mythical state high school football championship, if the weekly International News Service poll of sports writers and radio sportscasters is any criterion.

The scribes were practically unanimous in their indorsement of Harry Strobel's Magics, who completed their season last week with a 26-to-12 trouncing of Massillon.

Barberton's "G-men," Paul Gondor and Dick Goudy closed out the season in typically brilliant style. Each scored two touchdowns, Gondor getting one on an 88-yard run while Goudy dashed 74 yards for one of his.

Meanwhile, there was a certain amount of jockeying for position as the remaining school-boy elevens trained their sights on the runner-up spot.

Elyria slipped from second to third in the ratings as it had difficulty edging Lorain, 7 to 6. Canton McKinley switched positions with Elyria after trouncing Niles, 38 to 0.

With its narrow victory, Elyria closed its books on an undefeated season. McKinley, upset by Canton Lincoln, has Lakewood and Massillon left on the schedule.

CLEVELAND Cathedral Latin and Columbus West marked time in fourth and fifth places. Latin whipped Benedictine, 13 to 6, and West drubbed Columbus South, 20 to 0.

After being the uncrowned king of the schoolboys in both 1945 and 1946, Toledo Waite slipped all the way out of the first ten when it was upset by Toledo Libbey, 7 to 6, last Friday.

A vacancy thus created at sixth place was immediately filled by Middletown with a 37-to-6 romp over Dayton Wilbur Wright. Hamilton was close behind after defeating Mansfield, 19 to 7.

THOSE TWO Butler county arch-rivals meet Saturday in one of this week's top games. Middletown is unbeaten but tied by Porsmouth. Hamilton was upset by Springfield, but one of its eight victories came over Ports-

BROWNS SET FOR GAME OF YEAR AGAINST 49ERS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 11—Cleveland's game of the year—the Browns versus the San Francisco 49ers—probably will draw another sellout crowd to the stadium Sunday.

The 49ers, who are the Browns only contenders in the Western division, need a victory Sunday to remain in the fight for title honors. A defeat will eliminate the Friscans from the race.

The 49ers, who defeated the Browns once last year, are coached by Buck Shaw who employs an offensive system very similar to the Browns. The team itself is very much like the Browns, being rather light for a pro team, but very fast.

Frankie Albert, southpaw-throwing quarterback, led the 49ers to their victory over the Browns last season and is expected to give the Browns some more of the same trouble Sunday.

Coach Paul Brown gave the Clevelanders a day off yesterday, but resumed workouts today. He said one of the pleasing aspects of Sunday's win over the Dodgers was the outstanding work of George Young at left end.

mouth. The Big Blues' stock took a distinct rise last week when co-captain Harry Phillips returned from the injured list to run 80 yards for one Hamilton score.

Salem, which downed Canton Timken, 7 to 6, leap-frogged over Cleveland Holy Name from tenth to eighth. The Quakers' bid for an undefeated season hinges on this week's game with Lisbon, which also is unbeaten.

Holy Name defeated Cleveland West Tech, 6 to 0, and stayed in ninth place. Warren took over tenth after edging New Castle, Pa., 14 to 13.

Seven other undefeated teams all received mention but not enough to boost them into the upper strata. They were Troy and Piqua, who meet this week, and Upper Sandusky, Columbus Grandview, St. Clairsville, Lisbon and Hamilton Catholic.

Northwestern Up In Arms; Demand Likely For 'Extra Man' Change

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 11—The football rule penalizing a team having more than 11 men on the field was certain today to come up for heated discussion at the winter meeting of the intercollegiate rules committee.

Of that one can be assured after Northwestern's 7-to-6 loss last Saturday to Ohio State.

The Wildcat campus was plenty up in arms over the penalty called by Head Linesman E. C. Curtiss when he spotted Dick Price still on the playing field as the Buckeyes tossed a desperation pass.

The penalty nullified Tom Worthington's interception of the toss as the clock ran out and eventually led to Ohio State's victory. The Buckeyes had trailed, 6 to 0, at that time.

NORTHWESTERN does not blame Curtiss, however, for blowing his horn on the play.

INJURIES ADD TO PROBLEMS OF BUCK COACH

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—Injuries to five key backfield men were the chief concern of Ohio State coach Wes Fesler today as he readied his Bucks for Saturday's game with Illinois at Ohio Stadium.

Alex Verdova is almost certainly out for the remainder of the season with a rib injury. Joe Whisler may see limited service Saturday despite a bad shoulder, and Pete Perini is also on the doubtful list with a ruptured arm muscle.

Meanwhile, halfbacks Bob Brugge and Dean Sensenbaur showed last week they were not sufficiently recovered from various ailments to be of much use. Whether they can help Saturday is a moot question.

All that poses some very real problems for Fesler—as if that gentleman didn't have enough on his mind.

Dick Fisher, who scouted Illinois three times, brought back reports that were anything but encouraging. The Illini are virtually two deep in veterans from the 1946 Rose Bowl team that slaughtered the Bucks.

Perry Moss is still around to do the Illinois passing, and fellows like Dike Eddleman, Russ Steger, Art Dufelmeier and Chick Maggioni compose a top-notch ball carrying department.

Among other things, Fesler must develop a punter, but quick, if Whisler and Perini, his best boosters, aren't available. Ollie Cline is one possibility for the chore, and Fesler intimated he might dip down to the junior varsity and bring up George Gordon, sophomore halfback from Maumee, to kick.

DUCKS DUCK HATCHING

CANTON, Nov. 11—Ducks in South China do not hatch their eggs, reports Father Cyril Hirst, a Maryknoll missionary from Philadelphia. The duck line is continued, however, by the Chinese farmer who takes the eggs from the duck's nest, places them in rice, and keeps the temperature even. Nature does the rest.

They are merely dissatisfied that a rule exists whereby a team may be penalized for having an extra player on the field even though he is obviously out of play.

Northwestern Athletic director Ted Payseur stressed the fact the Wildcats are not protesting Curtiss' calling the infraction of the rules. Nor are they charging that Ohio State trapped Bob Price by eliminating the huddle in an effort to beat the clock.

Northwestern just wants something done about the rule so it won't happen again to any team.

WILDCAT Coach Bob Voigts admitted that Price was on the field when the play was run. He said pictures of the game substantiated that fact.

Voigts declared: "But he wasn't in position to have any effect on the play starting. And he was running away from the play at full speed trying to reach the sideline in time."

Harold (Red) Grange, who saw the game at Columbus, backed up Northwestern's reaction over the rule.

ILLINOIS' erstwhile "Gallop Ghost" declared the "extra man" rule should be clarified. He said Price was "obviously out of the play."

Big Nine Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson awaited a complete report from Referee Russell Rupp, Curtiss and the other officials who handled the game.

However, since there appeared to be no evidence of faulty officiating the game will undoubtedly remain in the record books with the final score: Ohio State 7, Northwestern 6.

PLUMBERS WIN WARM-UP GAME BY 51-21 SCORE

Pettibone Plumbers, Pickaway county's entry in the newly-formed Mid-Ohio League ran up a 51-21 score over the New Holland Independents in a warm-up contest Monday night at New Holland.

The scoring punch of the Plumbers was shown early in the game as they scored 12 points before the host team was able to register any points.

The Plumbers are expected to be one of the stronger quintets in the Mid-Ohio.

Don Thomas and "Red" Wilson led the victors in scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively. Hobbie was high for the losers with 7.

The New Holland team is comprised of former New Holland and Atlanta athletes.

SCRIBES PICK BARBERTON AS STATE LEADER

Canton McKinley Steps Up To Second, Ousting Elyria Eleven

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11—There'll be few disputes to Barberton's claim to the mythical state high school football championship, if the weekly International News Service poll of sports writers and radio sportscasters is any criterion.

The scribes were practically unanimous in their indorsement of Harry Strobel's Magics, who completed their season last week with a 26-to-12 trouncing of Massillon.

Barberton's "G-men," Paul Gondor and Dick Goudy closed out the season in typically brilliant style. Each scored two touchdowns, Gondor getting one on an 88-yard run while Goudy dashed 74 yards for one of his.

Meanwhile, there was a certain amount of jockeying for position as the remaining school-boy elevens trained their sights on the runner-up spot.

Elyria slipped from second to third in the ratings as it had difficulty edging Lorain, 7 to 6. Canton McKinley switched positions with Elyria after trouncing Niles, 38 to 0.

With its narrow victory, Elyria closed its books on an undefeated season. McKinley, upset by Canton Lincoln, has Lakewood and Massillon left on the schedule.

CLEVELAND Cathedral Latin and Columbus West marked time in fourth and fifth places. Latin whipped Benedictine, 13 to 6, and West drubbed Columbus South, 20 to 0.

After being the uncrowned king of the schoolboys in both 1945 and 1946, Toledo Waite slipped all the way out of the first ten when it was upset by Toledo Libbey, 7 to 6, last Friday.

A vacancy thus created at sixth place was immediately filled by Middletown with a 37-to-6 romp over Dayton Wilbur Wright. Hamilton was close behind after defeating Mansfield, 19 to 7.

THOSE TWO Butler county arch-rivals meet Saturday in one of this week's top games. Middletown is unbeaten but tied by Portsmouth. Hamilton was upset by Springfield, but one of its eight victories came over Portsmouth.

Only three people know the identity of the mysterious "Miss Hush" on "Truth or Consequences" — Ralph Edwards, producer Al Paschall and engineer Joe Kay. The sponsor does not know, nor does anyone at NBC.

The only way to keep a secret really secret is not to tell a soul, and that's exactly the premise on which Ralph Edwards operates. Paschall knows because he acts as go-between on prior arrangements. And engineer Joe Kay must know because he must set up engineering equipment for Miss Hush. The mysterious lady will speak again next Saturday night on "Truth or Consequences." Send your March of Dimes contributions and your letter on why we should support the March of Dimes to "Miss Hush, Hollywood, California." And maybe when the telephone rings next Saturday night in your home, it will be Ralph Edwards asking for your guess on Miss Hush's identity. If you guess right, you'll win prizes valued in excess of $16,000—as of this week!

If you're a close friend of Guy Lombardo's, you don't have to visit a zoo. For the bandleader has enough pets in his Freeport, L. I. home to satisfy the curiosity of any average animal lover. The addition of an alley cat to the Lombardo menage this week brings the total to 62: there's the cat, five dogs (four Dalmatians and one "plain dog"), fifty chickens, four love birds, one parrot and a marmoset monkey. Soft-hearted Guy bought the cat and two of the dogs right out of a pet shop window. Both dogs, says Guy, are so ugly that he knew if he didn't buy them, no one would. One of the dogs is blind in one eye and its head is too small for the rest of its body. The cat looked so thin and unhappy, he couldn't resist its mute plea either, and bought it.

Work On $200,000 County Lake Project Expected To Start Soon

CONTRACT TO BE AWARDED, RICHARDS SAYS

Snag Struck On Dam Building Cost Finally Overcome By Conservation Board

Memorial Lake and park to be built in the Devil's Backbone area northeast of Cincinnati will cost approximately $200,000, it was said Tuesday by Walter G. Richards, Route 4, Circleville, and work on the project is expected to begin soon. Mr. Richards is president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association.

The work was to have been started in October but it struck a "snag", Mr. Richards said, but this has now been overcome and the State Division of Conservation will soon award the contract for the construction job. He said, however, that the exact date for letting the contract had not been determined.

The Division of Conservation allocated $50,000 about two years ago for the Memorial Lake and park, Mr. Richards said, and last June the state legislature voted an appropriation of $150,000, making a total of $200,000.

A FEW WEEKS ago state inspectors surveyed the site and on returning to Columbus prepared a report which said the building of the dam would cost more than the original estimate of $125,000. This proved to be the "snag" which temporarily delayed the start of the work, but Mr. Richards said this angle had been straightened out and the way has been paved for the launching of the project.

The Memorial Lake and park site comprises 400 acres on which options were obtained some time ago by officials of the Division of Conservation. Plans call for a lake of 161 acres, with the remaining 239 acres to be transformed into a public park with facilities for picnics and outdoor sports.

Fishing and boating will be permitted on the lake, with ice skating and other cold weather sports in season.

The project includes the building of new roads, and park buildings, and installation of outdoor furnaces, picnic tables, and other improvements.

The Memorial Lake and park is to be a living memorial to Pickaway countians who died in the service of Uncle Sam during World War II. Just when the building of the lake and park will be finished remains undetermined.

VOTING OF the $150,000 appropriation by the legislature climaxed three years of effort by backers of the project, particularly the Pickaway County Memorial Association and Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association. The initial move for the Memorial Lake and park was made several years ago by L. H. Mebs who eventually interested civic groups in the idea, and pledges of cooperation were then obtained from the State Conservation Division.

Paul Rodenfels, who came to The Circleville Herald as advertising manager July 10, 1944, will go to Washington C. H., January 1 to assume a position as business manager of the Washington C. H. Record Herald. Mr. Rodenfels came to The Circleville Herald from Wilmington where he was connected with the News Journal.

Work On $200,000 County Lake Project Expected To Start Soon

CONTRACT TO BE AWARDED, RICHARDS SAYS

Snag Struck On Dam Building Cost Finally Overcome By Conservation Board

Memorial Lake and park to be built in the Devil's Backbone area northeast of Circleville will cost approximately $200,000, it was said Tuesday by Walter G. Richards, Route 4, Circleville, and work on the project is expected to begin soon. Mr. Richards is president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association.

The work was to have been started in October but it struck a "snag," Mr. Richards said, but this has now been overcome and the State Division of Conservation will soon award the contract for the construction job. He said, however, that the exact date for letting the contract had not been determined.

The Division of Conservation allocated $50,000 about two years ago for the Memorial Lake and park. Mr. Richards said, and last June the state legislature voted an appropriation of $150,000, making a total of $200,000.

A FEW WEEKS ago state inspectors surveyed the site and on returning to Columbus prepared a report which said the building of the dam would cost more than the original estimate of $125,000. This proved to be the "snag" which temporarily delayed the start of the work, but Mr. Richards said this angle had been straightened out and the way has been paved for the launching of the project.

The Memorial Lake and park site comprises 400 acres on which options were obtained some time ago by officials of the Division of Conservation. Plans call for a lake of 161 acres, with the remaining 239 acres to be transformed into a public park with facilities for picnics and outdoor sports.

Fishing and boating will be permitted on the lake, with ice skating and other cold weather sports in season.

The project includes the building of new roads, and park buildings, and installation of outdoor furnaces, picnic tables, and other improvements.

The Memorial Lake and park is to be a living memorial to Pickaway countians who died in the service of Uncle Sam during World War II. Just when the building of the lake and park will be finished remains undetermined.

VOTING OF the $150,000 appropriation by the legislature climaxed three years of effort by backers of the project, particularly the Pickaway County Memorial Association and Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association. The initial move for the Memorial Lake and park was made several years ago by L. H. Mebs who eventually interested civic groups in the idea, and pledges of cooperation were then obtained from the State Conservation Division.
